AS THE NEWS BREAKS

[By Associated Press.]

AUSTIN, Tex., May 8.—A campaign has been begun throughout Texas by the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks to raise a fund of approximately $50,000 to enable Texas youths to attend the University of Texas. The plan is to lend the money to deserving boys, who otherwise would be unable to get a higher education. It is said to have the approval of the university faculty.

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 8.—"Go to church in honor of your mother," will be the slogan of churches and religious societies here tomorrow. An effort will be made to have a large attendance at all the churches.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 8.—Oklahoma, by special proclamation of Governor R. L. Williams, will pay tribute to American motherhood tomorrow, Sunday being set aside as Mothers' Day in this State. Early in April the Governor issued a proclamation to that effect.

DALLAS, Tex., May 8.—Auburn, East-We-Go and other suburban territory of Dallas will become part of the city by an ordinance which becomes effective tomorrow. The ordinance was formally approved by the mayor April 9, and under the law does not become effective for thirty days afterwards.

GEORGETOWN, Tex., May 8.—United State Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas is on the program to deliver the principal address here tomorrow at the unveiling of monuments to a number of former prominent Texans. The exercises will be under the auspices of Georgetown Camp No. 27, Woodmen of the World, and will be held in the Odd Fellows' cemetery here at 2:30 p. m.

DALLAS, Tex., May 8.—A call has been sent out by the Dallas Music Teachers' Association for all music teachers of the State to meet here May 21 and 22 to form a State organization. Special exercises have been prepared for the two-day session, and a number of musical treats have been placed on the program.

WEATHER FORECAST

(Copyrighted, 1915, by W. T. Foster.)

Washington, May 8.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent May 9 to 13, inclusive; warm wave 8 to 12; cool wave 15 to 19. It will be noticed that we give six days as the average time required for any weather change or weather feature to pass across the continent from east to west. We use the word "about," because the time required for these weather events to cross the continent varies a little, sometimes requiring seven and at other times only five days. This six-day period has reference only to the transcontinental disturbances. Occasionally tropical storms pass northeastward off the Atlantic coast and these sometimes break up the transcontinental storms, causing errors in our forecasts for Northeastern sections. Hereafter we have not included these tropical storms in our forecasts, but, after a long study of the subject and very many experiments, using the daily weather records covering one hundred years, we are about ready to include those tropical storms in our forecasts, thereby greatly improving them. This will put Washington, D. C., and the Southeastern States into the territory covered by our forecasts. They have not heretofore been included except indirectly.

The storm wave described at the beginning of this letter has been expected to inaugurate a hot wave somewhat similar to that of April 24 to 30, which was very successfully forecasted. This May hot wave is expected to cause a drouth scare and cause a big rise in oats on account of a drouth in Northwestern part of the oats belt. The severe storms expected not far from May 8 have all the time been located in the Southern States and have been expected to be similar to those that occurred in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, etc., and which were almost perfectly forecasted in these bulletins. But the storms near May 8 have not been expected to be so severe.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about May 13, cross Pacific slope by close of 14, great central valleys 15 to 17, Eastern sections 18. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about May 13, great central valleys 15, Eastern sections 18. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about May 16, great central valleys 18, Eastern sections 20.

This will be a great change in weather conditions. Very hot weather will be followed by very cool weather. Severe storms are expected in the Southern States, but not so dangerous as those near April 23. While these storms are occurring in the Southern States a great fall in temperatures is expected in the Middle Northwest that may bring frosts. We locate the rains of this storm in the cotton States, while Northwestern sections will get much less rain.

March 25 our calculations were made for dangerous Southern storms and the forecast was published April 10. The storm wave was scheduled to cross continent April 19 to 23, and we said: "This will bring bad storms to many sections and all should be on the alert. No voyage should be taken on the waters during that week and plans should be made for remaining near home and safety. Heavy rains are expected in Southern and Eastern sections, in Mexico, Central America and on the Southern California Pacific slope."

UNCLE WHIT MOORE DEAD.

Uncle Whit Moore, one of the old-time colored men of Bryan, died Thursday and was buried yesterday afternoon. Uncle Whit was a quiet, law-abiding man and had many friends among the white people as well as those of his own race.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY. By CHARLES HENRY ADAMS.

New York, May 8.—One of woman's rarest beauties is a good figure. And it is "rare" in two senses of the word.

Sometimes I try to imagine the comments of the great Greek Phidias, or of the unknown sculptor of the Mellan Aphrodite, could their shades be taken on a stroll down Fifth Avenue, or even into the dress rehearsal of a Broadway beauty chorus. To the Greeks beauty of body was infinitely more important than beauty of face. Polite foreigners say that American women have the best figures in the world. Yet 90 per cent of us deviate from the normal, and how seldom in New York does one see a tall, perfected proportioned woman, who is neither a sausage roll nor a string bean?

Yet this is the dictum of Miss Sussanna Cocroft:

"Few women have regular features. All may have good figures, well groomed and wholesome.

"No woman need take her figure for granted," Miss Cocroft continued vivaciously. "She can make herself as attractive, expressive and magnetic as she wills. In early life, before the bones have hardened, even their shape may be changed, and at any time in life the adjustment of the bones in their sockets and the quantity and contour of the flesh may be altered—even at the age of 90. If one has neglected her figure in early years, it is never too late to improve it.

"For thin women, therefore, (1) the digestion must be put in order; (2) correct breathing must be established; (3) proper poise of head, chest and body must be taught; (4) the proportion of carbohydrates in the food must be increased; (5) the time and manner of eating must be regulated; (6) there must be exercises for rounding out the muscles, followed by complete relaxation; (7) mental relaxation must be encouraged."

"PUDDEN."

What is "pudden?" Do you like "pudden?" Of course you do. We all like it and the more the better—like mother used to make. Many recipes have been given and most of them are good and the South has rallied nobly in praise of "pudden," and many tributes to its dietetic value have been given.

Why should not great and lasting good result from the study of a big rich budding pudden?

People are still complaining of the high cost of living. Many are still finding it difficult to feed large families. Why should not the general introduction of "pudden" all over the South prove of lasting economic value to its millions?

"Pudden" is pleasant to the taste; it is strictly wholesome; it is unrivaled for girls' complexion; it gives strength and character to boys; it makes a man love his wife, a boy his sweetheart; it is nourishing; it is easily made, and there is absolutely no waste, and, above all, it is very cheap.

Ethically, "pudden" prides the heart and conscience. Politically it imparts faith in the principles of Democracy. It exalts and ennobles one's patriotism and tends to righteousness and salvation.

It seems to me any one would like pudden.

Do you? T. W. BEARD.

MRS. VICTOR TODARO.

Relatives here were apprised yesterday of the death of Mrs. Victor Todaro in a sanitarium in New Orleans, where she was carried for treatment some time ago.

Mrs. Todaro was formerly of this city, but had been living in Highbank for some time. The remains have been shipped to her home, where they will be buried this afternoon.

THE BAPTIST REVIVAL.

The revival at the Baptist Church is attracting much attention in all parts of the city.

Seldom if ever has Bryan heard such preaching and singing in a series of meetings.

Yesterday morning a fine day congregation greeted the evangelists.

Dr. Palmer spoke with great power and emphasized the importance of the union of all Christians in the great work of giving the gospel to the whole world. He said it was not the will of God nor the desire of Jesus Christ that Christians should be divided into sects and schisms. The Lord prayed that all might be one as He and the Father were one.

Prof. Wolsagel sang a duet with Dr. Richardson. It was greatly enjoyed by the congregation. The singing throughout the meeting has been a great feature in the services.

Last night the song service consisted of songs by the junior choir and the choir sang leading the congregation in heavenly music. Prof. Wolsagel sang happily a song that greatly moved the large audience.

Dr. Palmer spoke on the things that remain. He plead with the people to perform the mighty works before them and to help the world to Jesus Christ. He used logic and rhetoric and every source of reason known to the ministry in persuading the lost to come to Christ. Dr. Palmer has made a great name in Bryan as a man of remarkable learning and experience. His sermon was well received and a number expressed a desire to come to the revival. Eternity alone can reveal the good that was done.

Services tonight at 8 and tomorrow at 10 a. m., 11 a. m., 3 p. m. and 8 p. m.
